

About Us

Pegasus is a service and design led production company specialising in all facets of live corporate events and video production from the creative process to practical delivery.

We produce bespoke events such as road shows, conferences, award ceremonies, parties, video programmes and web casts to our clients' individual requirements. Working to defined budgets and timescales, we deliver unique and memorable solutions, whether to communicate key messages or to celebrate successes.

We began as a presentation design company in 1988 and in 1992 we started producing complete event solutions from presentation design to conference management.

Our clients include major organisations in the finance, energy, property, technology and Government sectors.

Pegasus is organised into three integrated divisions:

Pegasus Events which produces corporate events and provides a comprehensive range of production services covering conferences, road shows, awards ceremonies and parties;

Pegasus Video which produces video programmes and related presentation content;

Pegasus Creation which focuses on all the creative elements for events including 3D and web-based design, video and other moving images, related collaterals and print management.

Our purpose is simple – we help our clients make lasting connections with their audiences whether it be at a live event, creating a video or through pre- and post- production communication.

Unique, Sensible, Responsible, Flexible: How We Work

In order to make your event unique, we start by identifying the relevant image, themes and brand requirements for the event and making sure that these are consistently applied.

We aim to understand your business and communications objectives and then propose an event and / or video based upon what you want to achieve, whilst also maintaining a sensible balance between creative ideas and practical solutions.

We take the stress out of events by taking responsibility for successful delivery, through meticulous technical and logistical planning and by only using qualified experts.

We expect to work in a way that suits you best, but always to set timescales and budgets.

For example, we offer either a fully managed production service, from concept through completion to post-event analysis; or bespoke support where you choose the service elements on a menu basis. We would then specify, plan and manage the technical, production and logistical elements as required, based on your brief to us.

We would be delighted to visit with you to discuss how we can help you with any future events, however large or small, as well as show you examples of work we have done with other clients.
